

Shubhrojyoti Sanbui

Beautiful things don't cry

On the occasional mumble of a distant foghorn.

A scarlet macaw settling on the apple bark,
Chirping with the winds in unison;
While the clouds growing pitch dark
Had other plans for the harvested acorn.

The droplets falling on the Ford windshield
Added to the melody of nature;
While the farmer was desperate to cover his yield

On his way to market venture.

Lightning and thunder kept the chorus
To continue till all ceased;
While the horizon was in a rush
To unfold the beauty sun kissed.

Dead beetles, on the tree trunk, not too dry
Yet the lustre is still intact on the trodden leaf
Because beautiful things don't cry
They rather smile as well in grief.

Shubhrojyoti Sanbui

Shubhrojyoti Sanbui is a recent graduate with a bachelor's degree in technology. He specializes in Electronics & Communication Engineering. As a teenager, he began to engage in poetry. He has since enjoyed every bit of it and aspire to share his writing. As of now, he has only published his poems in his college annual magazine, ETHNIC, twice. He is currently based in West Bengal, India.

Get Your Book Reviewed

If you have got any book published and are looking for a book review, contact us. We provide book review writing service for a fee. We (1) write book review (2) publish review in CLRI (3) conduct an interview with the author (4) publish interview in CLRI. Know more here.

Authors & Books

We publish book releases, Press Release about books and authors, book reviews, blurbs, author interviews, and any news related to authors and books for free. We welcomes authors, publishers, and literary agents to send their press releases. Visit our website <https://page.co/Vw17Q>.